While the pandemic has slowed down travel, it has not stopped the welcome news of new hotels opening. Properties spanning from Austin to Osaka continue to forge ahead with their plans and invite visitors to check in and stay a while.

Forbes Travel Guide gathered some of the luxury hotel openings that should be on your radar. Whether you bookmark these destinations for a future trip or book a stay now to be among the first guests, our list of 16 brand-new hotels to visit this year (or beyond) will give you some travel inspiration.

A boutique stay in Newport. BRENTON HOTEL

Brenton Hotel, Newport, Rhode Island

The amenities stand out at this boutique hotel, which opens July 31. Zip up to the sixth-floor Rooftop, which serves vistas as well as cocktails and bites amid a leafy setting. Try the personalized wellness offerings, ranging from having a Peloton delivered to your room to a staff-led biking trip. For a thoroughly Newport activity, charter the hotel's Hinckley Picnic Boat for a sunset cruise.
