

ESSENCE

HOME · TRAVEL

Yes, New Hotels Are Still Opening - Here Are 8 Incredibly Stylish Ones To Visit

HOTELS ACROSS THE NATION ARE NOT ONLY REOPENING THEIR DOORS, BUT THERE ARE SEVERAL NEW PROPERTIES DEBUTING FOR THE VERY FIRST TIME.

BY KIMBERLY WILSON · OCTOBER 2, 2020

It's no secret that COVID-19 hit the travel industry extremely hard.

But thankfully, there's still a glimmer of sunshine amidst the storm. Six months into this pandemic during what has arguably been the hospitality industry's most difficult time in history, hotels across the nation are not only reopening their doors, but there are several new properties debuting to welcome guests for the very first time.

As travelers are finally leaving the confines of their homes — whether by plane, train or automobile — there's no better time than now to check out a brand new hotel (and have less worry about previous guests or sanitization protocols). Here are a few domestic hotel openings to add to your travel list whether you're traveling right now, or not until 2021.

07 Brenton Hotel - Newport, RI

Located on the bustling waterfront in the heart of downtown Newport, RI, the newly built and locally owned Brenton Hotel which opened in July. Distinctively Newport from experience to architectural design, the Brenton Hotel redefines Gilded Age luxury with 57 rooms and suites, which are among the most spacious in town with interior finishes that evoke the feeling of an extravagant yacht.

<https://www.essence.com/lifestyle/travel/new-hotels-opening-despite-covid-19-coronavirus/#575469>